Foreword

The Rules of Procedure have been made based on the Charter of the United Nations to determine the exact procedures and expected conduct at the 2026 session of the Budapest International Model United Nations conference (BIMUN).

The BIMUN Secretariat has the right to change the Rules of Procedure before and at any time during the conference, with the permission of the Secretaries-General and the Presidents of the General Assembly.

The changes will automatically be adopted to the procedure of the debates. The changes will be announced by the Secretariat immediately.

Chapter I

Concerned Councils and Committees

The rules stated in the Rules of Procedure apply to:

1) the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (CCPCJ),
2) the Disarmament & International Security Committee (DISEC),
3) the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC),
4) the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP),
5) the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO)
6) the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC),
7) the Counter-Terrorism Committee (CTC),
8) the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO),
9) the International Criminal Court (ICC),
10) the Security Council (SC),
11) the Human Rights Council (HRC),
12) the World Trade Organization (WTO)
13) the Crisis Security Council (CSC),
14) the World Health Organization (WHO).

Chapter II

Rights and Duties of Participants

The Executive Board of BIMUN 2026 consists of the Secretaries-General, the Presidents of the General Assembly, the Heads of the Crisis Team and the Presidents or Chairpersons of all councils, committees, special organizations, agencies and programmes (hereinafter Presidency).

Article 1

Rights and Duties of the Secretaries-General

1) The Secretary-General shall be independent, thus shall not receive instructions from any person.
2) The Secretaries-General have the right to overrule any decisions of other members of the Executive Board if they feel the necessity of doing so, after having consulted with the concerned Presidency.
3) The Secretaries-General have the right to settle any argument, misunderstanding or dispute if the solution could not be found according to the Rules of Procedure.
4) The Secretaries-General may take oral or written statements to any forum at BIMUN concerning any issue. The Presidents of the General Assembly have the same right, but only with the permission of either of the Secretaries-General.
5) Whenever one of the Secretaries-General is present, they have to be the first to be addressed when delivering a speech to the House by the Delegates.
6) The Secretary-General shall open and close the session of BIMUN 2026.
7) The Secretaries-General may designate either of the Presidents of the General Assembly to act on their behalf; in this case, the designated President of the General Assembly possesses all the rights of the Secretaries-General.

Article 2

Rights and Duties of the Presidents of the General Assembly

1) During the sessions, the Presidents shall have complete control of the proceedings according to the Rules of Procedure and shall be responsible for them to the Secretary-General.
2) During the Opening Ceremony and the General Assembly, the Presidents of the General Assembly have the right to:

a) determine the opening and closing of the session,
b) announce the suspension of the session,
c) announce the adjournment of the session,
d) rule on Points and Motions,
e) request formal apologies,
f) announce decisions and news,
g) accord the right to speak,
h) limit the speaking time,
i) call upon Delegates to stick to their countries' policies,
j) ensure the observance of the Rules,
k) reserve any further rights of the Presidency.

3) The Presidents must be able to give a reason for the decisions they have made before.

4) The Presidents must be able to set Delegates' doubts at rest by referring to the Rules of Procedure. The Presidents may call upon the Secretaries-General for advice.

5) Whenever the Presidents of the General Assembly are present, they have to be addressed when delivering a speech to the House by the Delegates, after the Secretaries-General have been addressed if they are present.

6) One of the Presidents of the General Assembly must be present at all meetings of the General Assembly.

7) The Presidents of the General Assembly have the right to invite Guest Speakers to take the floor.

8) The Presidents of the General Assembly have the right to invite the Delegates of the first plenary meeting to observe one minute of silence dedicated to prayer or meditation.

Article 3

Rights and Duties of the Heads of the Crisis Team

1) The Crisis Team is the part of the conference which is responsible for the Crises, guest speeches, replacing absent delegates and any other matter requiring an urgent solution. The Crisis Team is led by the Heads of the Crisis Team.

2) The Heads of the Crisis Team have the right to:

a) direct the Members of the Crisis Team,
b) write Directives and see to them being delivered,
c) deliver guest speeches in Committees as a part of the Crisis Team, in accordance with Chapter XVII, Article 8, Point 3 of the Rules of Procedure,

3) When the Heads of the Crisis Team see fit, said rights can be accorded to Members of the Crisis Team.

4) The Heads of the Crisis Team have the duty to:

    a) design the Crises to be debated during the conference,
    b) rule and oversee the smooth proceeding of the Assembly of Councils,
    c) answer any questions regarding the proceedings of the Assembly of Councils and see to its smooth proceedings.

Article 4

Rights and Duties of the Presidency

1) The Presidency shall open and close each meeting of their designated committee.

2) During the sessions, the Presidency shall have complete control of the proceedings according to the Rules of Procedure and shall be responsible for its enforcement to the Secretary-General.

3) The Presidency is free to partially modify the present Rules of Procedure within a particular committee, if doing so allows the debate to flow more efficiently. The Presidency in such cases is obliged to explain to the committee and the Presidents of the General Assembly why they have changed the specific rules.

4) During the sessions, the Presidency has the right to:

    a) determine the opening and closing of each debate,
    b) propose the suspension of the meeting,
    c) propose the adjournment of the meeting,
    d) rule on Points and Motions,
    e) overrule any objections raised to Motions,
    f) request formal apologies,
    g) announce decisions and news,
    h) accord the right to speak,
    i) limit the speaking time,
    j) call upon Delegates to stick to their countries' policies or request the Crisis Team to deliver Directives to delegates,
    k) voice their opinion on any procedural matters,
    l) ensure the enforcement of the Rules of Procedure.

5) The Presidency must be able to give a reason for the decisions they have made before.

6) The Presidency must be able to set Delegates' doubts at rest referring to the Rules of Procedure. The Presidency may call upon the Presidents of the General Assembly for advice.

7) The Presidency may request a nation to deliver a Position Paper on a certain issue, though sufficient preparation time must be given to the Delegate.

8) The Presidency has the right to invite a guest speaker to the committee/council in accordance with Chapter XVII, Article 8, Point 3 of the Rules of Procedure if the Item on Agenda requires the presence of another nation which is not present in the committee/council.

Article 5

Rights and Duties of the Ambassadors

1) Every Member State represented shall have an Ambassador appointed from the delegates representing it.

2) During the conference, the Ambassadors have the opportunity to deliver a speech in representation of their nations' policies and aims at the Opening Ceremony, in accordance with previous consultation with the Presidents of the General Assembly.

Article 6

Rights and Duties of the Delegates

1) Delegates must not be absent from sessions of their committee/council unless they have received permission in advance from the Executive Board.

2) Delegates shall not be late for the sessions. In such cases, they must send a message to the Presidency in which they give a reasonable explanation for being late and announce their state of presence. The admonishment of the Delegate for being late is subject to the discretion of the Presidency with respect to the delegate's dignity.

3) All Delegates are allowed to drink during the sessions but are prohibited from consuming any kind of comestibles. Beverages and water shall be kept in recapped bottles or cans during the whole session. In a reasonable case (health problems such as low blood sugar, etc.), the Delegates have the right to ask the Presidency via a Point of Personal Privilege to release them from these constraints, who are then obliged to do so.

4) Delegates with severe health concerns may, at the beginning of the day, notify the Presidency, and may receive the right to exit sessions that day without a Point of Personal Privilege from the Presidency.

Article 7

Rights and Duties of Observers

1) Each and every Right and Duty of the Delegates applies to the Observers as well.

2) Observers have the right to participate in the Procedural Voting Procedures although they may not participate in a Substantive Voting Procedure.

3) During the sessions of Budapest International Model United Nations 2026, the Republic of China is recognized as an Observer, and all other participants in the committees will be considered Member states (Substantive Voters), for the purpose of debate, even if they are not present in the actual United Nations Body as of the Conference dates (i.e. the United States of America in the World Health Organization, or the Russian Federation in the Human Rights Council.)

Chapter III

Attire and Decorum

1) All Participants are to act professionally and must always keep a formal appearance during the conference.

2) All Delegates are to act as diplomats and according to the policy of their represented nation or entity.

3) Male participants are to wear a suit and a tie with proper, elegant shoes or equally formal clothing.

4) Female participants are expected to wear a trouser suit or a skirt with a jacket and elegant shoes.

5) The length of skirts and the neckline of shirts or blouses must be appropriate to keep a professional ambience during the conference.

6) Non-formal clothing such as jeans, jumpers, T-shirts, sneakers, slippers, etc. is strictly prohibited during the whole conference.

7) Traditional costumes of the country represented are allowed during sessions, besides formal clothing.

8) If one denies dressing in formal clothes or exhibits an improper attitude, the Presidency has the right to discipline the participant.

9) In case a participant shows indecent behaviour at any point of the conference, the Secretaries-General may admonish or expel them to the Executive Board's recommendation or provide the right to any member of the Secretariat or the Executive Board to do so, after consultation with the MUN-Director of said participant.

10) The display of potentially offensive or politically sensitive items, such as framed pictures of heads of state, is not permitted. The Presidency reserves the right to order the removal of any materials they deem inappropriate for the diplomatic environment.

Chapter IV

Language

1) During the entire conference, including all formal sessions and informal meetings, the only official language is English; no other languages are allowed to address the public.

2) Delegates who violate this rule shall be called to order by the Executive Board.

Chapter V

Speeches

1) Delegates may deliver a speech only after being recognized and called to the floor by the Presidency.

2) When holding a speech, all functions in the room shall be addressed with respect to their titles (as Secretaries-General, Presidents of the General Assembly, Presidency, Delegates, NGOs, guests, etc.).

3) Speeches are always to be related to the matter being discussed.

4) Delegates may only refer to themselves either in the third person singular or in the first-person plural.

5) Delegates may only refer to other delegates in the third-person singular, with the sole exception being expressions of gratitude.

6) The Presidency may interrupt the speaker when their speech is not in connection with the subject of the matter or the content is offensive, incongruous or the speech is held in an inappropriate way.

7) Delegates must yield the floor back to the Presidency when being requested to do so, only after that may they leave the floor. In this case, Delegates may use the first-person singular.

Chapter VI

Notepapers

1) Delegates may inform each other about current issues, their points of view, discuss actions or ask for opinions in a semi-official way during the sessions via the designated platform or in case of technical difficulties via the passing of Official Notepapers.

2) Notepapers shall be provided and transmitted by the Administrative Staff, who also have the right to read into said papers and report to the Presidency if it does not meet the formal requirements.

3) Notepapers must be written in English.

4) A Notepaper may not be delivered if it contains inappropriate language or the content is not related to the Items on Agenda.

5) The passing of Notepapers between committees is allowed.

6) The Presidency may suspend the passing of Notepapers at any time.

Chapter VII

Working Papers and Draft Resolutions

Article 1

Working Papers

1) Working Papers (WPs) are created by the Delegates before the Committee Sessions, containing their countries' ideas to solve the problem at hand by creating a Word document.

2) A Working Paper is not an official document.

3) The Working Paper with the largest sum of Co-Submitters and Signatories at the end of lobbying time is sent to the Approval Panel.

4) If there are two Working Papers with the same number of Co-Submitters and signatories, the one with more Signatories shall be debated.

5) Each working paper can have:

    a) one Main Submitter,

    b) a maximum of three Co-Submitters,

        i) who must add value to the Working Papers via including their own Operative Clauses and actively participating in lobbying time,

        ii) who can only be a Co-Submitter of one Working Paper,

    c) any number of signatories,

        i) who would like to have the Working Papers debated, ii) who may be any Delegates who are not Main or Co-Submitters.

6) The Working Paper must be submitted to the Approval Panel in order to become a Draft Resolution.

7) The Working Paper must be electronically submitted and should be named as: 'Council_Issue_Submitter.'

8) The Crisis Committees and the Security Council debate on an ad-hoc basis, therefore, a Working Paper is not submitted.

Article 2

Draft Resolutions

1) All Delegates in the given committee receive the Draft Resolution via Google Docs through the designated online platform.
2) The Main Submitter of the Draft Resolution has the right to deliver a speech on each operative clause and yield the floor to Co-Submitters.
3) All delegates have the right to hold a speech on the resolution as a whole.
4) Amendments can be submitted via the given Google Forms.

Chapter VIII

Structure of Resolutions

Article 1

Resolution Requirements

1) All Draft Resolutions must use the given template provided by the Rapporteur.

2) The format must meet the following requirements:

Number of Pages	No limit
Font	Times New Roman
Font Size	12
Format	File .doc or .docx
Spacing	1,15
Language	English

Article 2

Heading of the Resolution

1) The heading is the first part of the Resolution which shall contain:

    a) the name and title of the committee/council,
    b) the Agenda Item it concerns,
    c) the Main Submitter,
    d) the Co-Submitters,
    e) the Signatories.

Article 3

Preambulatory Clauses

1) This section of a Resolution recalls former Resolutions, which once again require attention. It also highlights the importance of the issue and delineates the political, economic, cultural, social or environmental situation of a country or region the Resolution deals with. Operative Clauses may be moved to the Preambulatory Clauses via Amendments if they fulfil these requirements. Preambulatory Clauses may be removed at the recommendation of the Presidency if the simple majority of the committee agrees. The beginning of each Preambulatory Clause is indicated in italics with one Preambulatory Phrase and separated from the next by a comma (',') and a single spacing.

2) In Ad Hoc debate in the Security Council and debates on Crises, Preambulatory Clauses are submitted as Amendments and become part of the Resolution if accepted by exclamation.

3) All Preambulatory Clauses must begin with one of the following structures:

Acknowledging	Emphasizing	Keeping in mind
Affirming	Expecting	Noting further
Alarmed by	Expressing its appreciation	Noting with appreciation
Approving	Expressing its satisfaction	Noting with approval
Aware of	Fulfilling	Noting with deep concern
Bearing in mind	Fully alarmed	Noting with regret
Believing	Fully aware	Noting with satisfaction
Confident	Fully believing	Observing
Congratulating	Further deploring	Pointing out
Contemplating	Further recalling	Reaffirming
Convinced	Guided by	Realizing
Declaring	Having adopted	Recalling
Deeply concerned	Having considered	Recognizing
Deeply conscious	Having considered further	Referring
Deeply convinced	Having devoted attention	Taking into account
Deeply disturbed	Having examined	Taking into consideration
Deeply regretting	Having heard	Taking note
Deploring	Having received	Viewing with appreciation
Desiring	Having studied	Welcoming

Article 4

Operative Clauses

1) The Operative Clauses are the main segments of a Resolution as they comprise the recommended solutions. They represent the specific actions that all Submitters intend to carry out so as to resolve the matter.

2) The Operative Clauses must be numbered with Arabic numerals, sub-clauses with lower-case letters of the alphabet and further detailed lists (sub-sub-clauses) with Roman numbers.

3) The beginning of each Operative Clause is indicated in bold and underlined with one operative phrase (operator). Operative Clauses are separated from one another by a semicolon (';') while sub-clauses and sub-sub-clauses are separated from one another by a comma (,). A full stop ('.') is used only at the end of the Resolution itself.

4) All Operative Clauses must begin with one of the following structures:

Accepts	Encourages	Recommends
Affirms	Endorses	Regrets
Approves	Expresses its appreciation	Requests
Asks	Expresses its hope	Resolves
Authorizes	Further invites	Seeks
Calls for	Further proclaims	Strongly affirms
Calls upon	Further recommends	Strongly condemns
Condemns	Further requests	Strongly urges
Confirms	Further resolves	Suggests
Congratulates	Hopes	Supports
Declares accordingly	Invites	Transmits
Deplores	Proclaims	Trusts
Decides	Proposes	Urges

(Operative words that are bold and underlined are only used by the Security Council.)

Chapter IX

The Approval Panel

1) The Approval Panel (AP from here on) is the official body of BIMUN responsible for the grammatical, professional and formal correction of Working Papers, Draft Resolutions and Resolutions.

2) The AP consists of two sections, Formal Approval and Grammar Approval.

3) Grammar (English) and formal mistakes shall be highlighted or, if possible, without substantive changes, corrected in the documents handed in to the AP.

4) Once an Operative Clause is considered finished by the Submitters, it shall be handed in to the Presidency of the committee/council in a digital format via the designated platforms. From here on the Presidency is responsible for sending the documents for approval.

5) The Presidency is responsible for the Operative Clauses to be in accordance with international law and the Charter of the United Nations. Should the AP determine that certain parts of the Working Paper are not in accordance with international law or the Charter of the United Nations, it shall strike out said parts.

6) The AP may invite the Submitter of an Operative Clause for consultation during the approval process. In case the Submitter is invited, they must appear at the AP at once.

7) Following the approval process, the document shall be sent back to the committee/council, and from this very moment, the Operative Clause is considered ready to be debated.

8) Once the committee/council has passed an Operative Clause, it is the Presidency's responsibility to send it with all the passed Amendments and modifications for final approval to the AP.

Chapter X

Roll Call

1) A Roll Call takes place at the beginning of every session or may be ordered by the Presidency when there is a change in the number of attendants.

2) The Presidency shall call all the members of the committee/council including NGOs and Observers in alphabetical order following the English alphabet. All members who are present must state their attendance by raising their placards and saying 'present'.

3) The final act of every Roll Call shall be the announcement of:

    a) the number of Delegates present,
    b) the number of votes required for a simple and a two-thirds majority in voting procedures,
    c) the quorum.

Chapter XI

Quorum

1) To open a debate, at least fifty per cent of the Delegates of the committee/council plus one Delegate must be present. If this is not the case, the Presidency shall decide whether the debate shall be opened. Substantive voting shall not be held without a quorum of the committee/council.

Chapter XII

Flow of the Debate

Article 1

General Debate

1) Discussion on an Agenda Item shall be started by General Debate where Delegates have the opportunity to express their countries' opinions on the topic, state their concerns and suggest solutions to the matter.

2) A General Speakers List is set for the General Debate.

3) Once the time on the General Debate has elapsed, the House moves on to an Unmoderated Caucus.

Article 2

Unmoderated Caucus

1) Unmoderated Caucus is the stage of the discussion when Delegates collaborate and prepare Operative Clauses and Working Papers to be submitted to the Approval Panel.

2) During Unmoderated Caucus, Delegates are free to:

    a) leave the committee hall,
    b) have informal discussions, with respect to the official language of the conference.

3) The time for the Unmoderated Caucus is set by the Presidency at their discretion. When the time for Unmoderated Caucus elapses, the session shall start with a Roll Call.

Article 3

Directives

1) At certain times during the conference, Delegates may receive Directives, written by the Crisis Team.

2) Such occasions may include, but are not limited to:

    a) updates during the Crises,
    b) when a Delegate does not represent their country's policy.

3) Directives must be approved by the Heads of the Crisis Team.

4) The Presidency of a given committee shall ask the Crisis Team to deliver a Directive to a delegate in their committee, should they determine the delegate does not represent their country's policy.

5) The Presidency of the respective committee will be made aware of such Directives.

6) Delegates may receive Directives in printed forms, via Admin Staff, or via the designated online platform. Said Directives will include the mark of approval by the Heads of the Crisis Team.

7) Delegates receiving Directives must adhere to them immediately. In case they fail to do so, they shall be called to order by the Presidency.

8) Regarding disputes over uncertainty in the political structure or current government of the country represented, Member States can always turn to the Crisis Team or the Presidency before or during the conference, to clarify which position they should represent (i.e. during BIMUN 2026 the delegates of the Syrian Arab Republic shall represent the provisional government of Ahmed al-Sharaa.)

Article 4

Debate

1) The order of debating on the submitted Operative Clauses and Amendments will be set by the Presidency at their discretion.

2) Operative Clauses are to be submitted to the Presidency individually, through Amendment Sheets available via Google Forms. The same rules apply for Operative Clauses as for Amendments.

3) The submitter of the Operative Clause or Amendment shall take the floor, read out the Operative Clause or Amendment and deliver their speech on it, after which they may yield the floor to another Delegate. Following the speech, Points of Information shall be entertained if the Delegate is open to them.

4) The House moves on to a General Debate on the Operative Clause or Amendment, during which all Delegates may express their countries' opinions on it.

5) The councils and organizations work separately on solutions to the issue at hand, focusing on their own field of expertise, creating and passing Operative Clauses. After an Operative Clause in a committee has been passed, the committee shall immediately submit that Operative Clause to the Security Council if the content of the Operative Clause or the operator is within the Security Council's profile, where it will also be debated upon, and should it pass, it will be included in the Resolution.

6) If the Operative Clause does not fall within the profile of the Security Council or it does not require its involvement due to its wording and passes within the submitting council or organization, it automatically becomes part of the Working Paper.

7) In committees and councils which do not operate on an Ad Hoc basis, only new Operative Clauses and Amendments need to be debated on.

8) In Ad Hoc debates in the Security Council and on Crises, Delegates debate on the Operative Clauses one by one. This shall be an open debate. Amendments concerning the Operative Clause in question are also entertained. The House moves on to the next Operative Clause if there are no more speeches or Amendments concerning the Operative Clause and the Voting Procedure on the Clause has been completed.

Chapter XIII

Yields

1) During the General Debate or while an Operative Clause is being debated on after the delegates' speech is finished, Delegates have the right to yield the floor to another Delegate. This yield, however, may be overruled by the Presidency.

2) In any other cases, when the Delegate on the floor does not wish to yield the floor to another Delegate or no other options are in order, they shall yield the floor back to the Presidency.

3) The Presidency may call upon the Delegate at any time to yield the floor back.

Chapter XIV

Amendments

1) Delegates have the right to amend the Preambulatory and the Operative Clauses or add new ones to the Draft Resolution.
2) Amendments shall be passed in writing via the official Google Forms.
3) Amendments will be entertained according to the discretion of the Presidency based on the order of their submission and the degree of modification.
4) Amendments are categorised as Friendly and Unfriendly Amendments.
5) The Delegate who proposed the Amendment may at any time withdraw the proposal until the Voting Procedure.
6) Decision on the type of the Amendment is up to the discretion of the Presidency and the Submitter of the Operative Clause.

Article 1

Friendly Amendments

1) An Amendment is considered friendly if it changes the Operative Clause only grammatically or clarifies the Operative Clause without changing its original meaning and adding new ideas.
2) The Submitter of the Operative Clause has to accept the changes proposed by the Friendly Amendment. If they disagree with the Amendment, it shall automatically be regarded as an Unfriendly Amendment.
3) In case an Amendment is declared Friendly and accepted by the Submitter, it is automatically adopted without a Substantive Voting Procedure or debate.
4) Friendly amendments may be submitted to Preambulatory Clauses.

Article 2

Unfriendly Amendments

1) Unfriendly Amendments propose changes to the content of the Operative Clause. Once an Amendment has been declared unfriendly, the Presidency may request the Delegate proposing the Amendment to introduce the reason for the proposal.
2) After the Delegate has done so, the Committee moves on to open debate on the Amendment.

3) After the Debate has ended the committee/council moves on to the Voting Procedure.

4) Amendments that have gained a simple majority of affirmative votes pass, and thus change the Operative Clause.

5) After the vote has taken place, the council/committee shall move back to open debate on the Operative Clause.

6) No Unfriendly Amendments can be submitted to Preambulatory Clauses.

Article 3

Second-Degree Amendments

1) Second-Degree Amendments propose changes to Amendments submitted in Ad Hoc debate and are categorized as unfriendly.
2) Second-Degree Amendments are not in order during debates which do not operate on an Ad Hoc basis.

Chapter XV

Voting

1) All Voting Procedures shall be conducted by the Presidency.
2) At the request of the Presidency, all members of the House have to vote by raising their placards at the appropriate moment.
3) Voting Procedures are categorised according to their nature as Substantive and Procedural Voting.

Article 1

The Outcome of the Voting

1) A simple majority is fifty per cent (rounded down) plus one vote of the quorum in the committee/council.
2) To pass by a two-thirds majority at least two-thirds (rounded up) of the quorum has to be in favour.

Article 2

Substantive Voting

1) When voting on a Resolution, Operative Clause or Amendment, Substantive Voting is applied.
2) Should the debate on a currently discussed topic conclude, the committee/council moves directly into Voting Procedure.
3) In the case of Substantive Voting, only Member States are allowed to vote. NGOs, Observers and guests shall not vote. The Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan is recognized across all committees of Budapest International Model United Nations 2026 as a Member State, alongside the Russian Federation in the Human Rights Council.
4) During a Substantive Voting Procedure, the principle of Constructive Abstentions is respected. In case at least 50 per cent of the present members of the committee abstain from voting, the Resolution, Operative Clause or Amendment fails. In that case, Delegates can raise a Motion to retake the votes.
5) Each question on Substantive Voting requires a simple majority to pass in all committees and councils, with the exception of the Security Council and the Crisis Security Council.

Article 3

Procedural Voting

1) Except for Resolutions, Operative Clauses and Amendments, Procedural Voting is used on any other question put to vote.

2) During a Procedural Voting, all members of the House have to vote, including NGOs and Observers, exclusively in favour or against. Abstentions are not in order during Procedural Voting.

Article 4

Roll Call Voting

1) Roll Call Voting can be proposed by the Presidency or by any of the Delegates via raising a Motion to Vote by Roll Call.

2) During a Roll Call Voting, all members present in the committee/council will be called by the Presidency individually in alphabetical order, following the English alphabet. Hearing their names, members shall answer according to the nature of the voting and may explain their views briefly upon the request of the Presidency.

Chapter XVI

Points

1) A Point may not interrupt the speaker except for the Point of Personal Privilege due to audibility or concerns relating to the health of the Delegate, and the Right of Reply.

2) Points are not debatable, and seconds do not need to be recognized.

3) Points shall be indicated by raising the placard high and saying the specific Point except for a Point of Information.

4) Points shall be stated clearly after the Presidency recognizes them.

5) Delegates shall rise to state their Points.

Article 1

Point of Information

1) A Point of Information can be raised by the Delegates after a speech has been delivered on the floor.

2) Before the Points are raised, the Presidency makes an inquiry to the speaker on the floor whether they are open for any Points of Information.

3) Points of Information must be phrased as a concise question related to the speech that has recently been delivered. The Presidency may overrule any Points of Information if their phrasing is rhetorical or the content is offensive or not relevant to the subject under discussion.

4) The speaker has the right to refuse to answer if they find the Point offensive or not relevant to the subject under discussion.

Article 2

Request for a Follow-Up

1) After a Delegate has asked a Point of Information, but deem the provided answer insufficient, or would like to clarify their previous one, they may request a follow-up.

2) The approval of the request is subject to the discretion of the Presidency.

Article 3

Right of Reply

1) A Delegate can raise a Right of Reply in case they feel a personal or national offence has been committed by the Delegate currently on the floor.

2) Whether the Point is approved is subject to the discretion of the Presidency.

3) The Delegate who has raised the Point may state which remark they considered to be insulting at the end of the speech or reply to a Point of Information. The Delegate addressed within the Point may also elaborate on their viewpoint diplomatically with the Right of Response.

4) Hearing from both sides, the Presidency shall decide whether a public apology is in order as a consequence.

5) If the Presidency decides that a public apology is in order, the apology must be carried out in a diplomatic manner.

6) Raising this Point may interrupt the speaker, but the Point shall only be entertained after the speaker on the floor has finished their speech.

Article 4

Point of Personal Privilege

1) A Point of Personal Privilege may be raised by Delegates at any time during the sessions. It may only refer to audibility concerns or the well-being, discomfort, health or safety of the Delegate.

2) A Point of Personal Privilege is immediately addressed by the Presidency who may also refuse to recognize the Point if it is incongruous or dilatory.

3) A Point of Personal Privilege may only interrupt the speaker when it is due to audibility or due to immediate health concerns.

Article 5

Point of Parliamentary Inquiry

1) A Point of Parliamentary Inquiry may be raised to the Presidency if the question is related to the Rules of Procedure, the flow of the debate or the official schedule of the Conference.

2) After the Point is raised, the Delegate shall be given the explanation required.

Article 6

Point of Order

1) A Point of Order must be related to the Rules of Procedure.
2) Delegates may raise a Point of Order if they do not consent to the current decision of the Presidency concerning the Rules of Procedure.
3) The Presidency has the right not to change their decision. In this case, a Delegate may ask for an explanation.
4) The Presidency has the right to overrule the statement of the Delegate.

Chapter XVII

Motions

1) Delegates may propose a Motion by raising their placard and stating the motion. Once recognized by the Presidency, the specific Motion has to be clarified by the Delegate who had raised it.

2) Motions shall not interrupt the speaker.

3) Entertaining Motions is subject to the discretion of the Presidency as the Presidency also has the right to overrule any Motion before the Voting Procedure on a particular Motion.

4) The Presidency may overrule any Motion, except for a Motion to Appeal to the Chair's Decision.

5) Motions need to be seconded at least twice to be entertained.

6) In case a Delegate is in opposition to a Motion, they may express their disagreement by saying "objection" when the Motion is being proposed.

7) Both are indicated by saying "second" or "objection" loudly.

8) The Presidency may call the Delegate against the Motion to clarify their point of view.

9) The Presidency has the right to overrule any objections raised to Motions.

10) If the Motion is seconded by at least two Delegates, and there are no objections, the Motion is automatically approved, bar the Presidency overruling it.

11) In case the Motion has been seconded at least twice and there has also been at least one objection, entertaining the Motion is subject to the Presidency's discretion or the Motion shall be put to a Procedural Voting. This is specified for each Motion in their respective Articles.

12) In case a motion is put to Procedural Voting, certain Motions require a simple majority to be entertained while others require a two-thirds majority to be entertained. This is specified for each Motion in their respective Articles.

Article 1

Motion to Appeal to the Chair's Decision

1) A Motion to Appeal to the Chair's Decision can be raised in case the Delegate finds that the Presidency has recently made an incorrect ruling.

2) A Motion to Appeal to the Chair's Decision may only be raised in case the Delegate has previously raised a Point of Order concerning the same issue and did not find the Presidency's reasoning to be sufficient.

3) Motions to Appeal to the Chair's Decision shall be entertained in any case. Once the Delegate has explained their reasons for raising the Motion.

4) A Motion to Appeal to the Chairs' decision requires a two-thirds majority.

Article 2

Motion to Exclude the Public

1) A Motion to Exclude the Public may be raised if the Presidency or any of the Delegates feel disturbed by the audience or guests, or feel that the further acts of the committee/council require more confidentiality.

2) In case of an objection, this Motion needs a simple majority to pass.

3) If the mentioned parties feel disturbed by the Motion having been approved, an initiative could be handed to the Presidency, requesting to release them from this concern.

Article 3

Motion to Move Directly into Voting Procedure

1) When a Delegate feels it is unnecessary to further debate the issue at hand, they may raise this Motion in order to move to a Voting Procedure, and then the subsequent question.

2) In case this Motion is objected, to entertain it is subject to the Presidency's discretion.

3) The Presidency may overrule this Motion in case the debate has been unsatisfactory, or when the time and the Agenda Item allow more debate to be held on the topic.

Article 4

Motion to Invite a Guest Speaker

1) This Motion can be used when the Delegates feel the importance of inviting a guest to join the discussion, especially if the Agenda Item deals with an issue of a country which is not represented in the committee/council.

2) The Motion may also be used by the Presidency at their own discretion.

3) When the Motion is raised and approved, the Presidency will notify the Crisis Team. A guest speaker appointed by the Crisis Team will then deliver a speech on the Agenda Item in representation of the required Entity. In reasonable cases, the Ambassador of said nation may be invited as a Guest Speaker. The delegate requesting the Ambassador must be able to explain why the Ambassador is needed.

Article 5

Motion to Vote by Roll Call

1) A Delegate may raise a Motion to vote by Roll Call at the start of the Voting Procedure, or if they feel that the Voting Procedure was inappropriate or ambiguous.

2) This Motion shall automatically be approved by the Presidency if considered to be in order, thus the Voting Procedure shall be continued according to the content of Chapter X.

3) This Motion may not interrupt the Voting Procedure.

Article 6

Motion to Explain the Vote

1) The Delegate who raised this Motion can require any delegates to explain their vote on an Amendment or Resolution.

2) The Delegates subject to this Motion shall give proper clarification of their vote.

3) The Presidency may ask for the consent of the Delegate subject to this Motion to entertain it.

4) This Motion may not interrupt the Voting Procedure.

Article 7

Motion to Retake the Votes

1) If a Delegate wishes to repeat the Voting Procedure, this Motion shall be raised.

2) This Motion shall automatically be approved by the Presidency if considered to be in order.

3) This Motion may not interrupt the Voting Procedure.

Article 8

Motion to Accept by Acclamation

1) If during the debate the concerned committee/council seems to be in complete agreement regarding the matter at hand, a Motion to Accept by Acclamation may be raised by Delegates.

2) If there is an Objection raised the Motion automatically fails and the committee/council is to return to the normal Voting Procedure.

Article 9

Motion to Move into a Q&A Session

1) Before entertaining this Motion, the Presidency shall ask the Delegate of the country named if they support this Motion.

2) In case this Motion is objected, entertaining it is subject to the Presidency's discretion.

3) Once the proposal is accepted by the delegate and approved by the Presidency, Delegates who wish to join the Q&A session may stand up until they are recognised by the Presidency for their question(s).

4) The Presidency shall moderate the procedure and also has the right to limit the speaking time and the number of questions.

Article 10

Motion to Join the Speakers' List

1) A Speakers' List is a list of Delegates wishing to:

    a) deliver a speech,
    b) raise a Point of Information.

2) This Motion is up to the discretion of the Presidency.

Article 11

Motion to Divide the House

1) In case a vote is close or not decisive due to a large number of abstentions, Delegates have the right to raise this Motion, which will result in a new voting procedure without the possibility of abstaining or can be overruled by the Presidency.

2) In case of an objection, this Motion needs a simple majority to pass.

3) This Motion may not interrupt the Voting Procedure.

Article 12

Motion to Move into Moderated Caucus

1) Should the Delegates need further debate in an orderly manner during Committee Sessions, they may raise a Motion to move into Moderated Caucus in order to clarify their position thus facilitating the efficiency of the debate.

2) The Delegate raising the Motion shall phrase the question the caucus would solve when indicating it to the Presidency. They also have the right to specify the speaking time and the time for the Caucus. In case the Delegate does not specify this, the Presidents shall do so.

3) This Motion needs a simple majority to pass.

4) When the Caucus is announced by the Presidency, the speaking time and the time for the caucus shall also be set – these could differ from the Delegate's suggestion and are up to the Presidency's discretion.

5) During Moderated Caucus, Delegates are allowed to express their opinions concerning the topic without approaching the podium but keeping themselves to the use of the third person. Speakers are entertained one after the other and no Points of Information are in order.

6) Forming a speakers' list to moderate the Caucus is subject to the Presidency's discretion.

7) When the time for the Caucus elapses, the House shall continue with the stage of the debate before the Caucus.

Article 13

Motion to Move into Unmoderated Caucus

1) Motions to move into an Unmoderated Caucus may be raised in case the delegates feel the need to have an unmoderated discussion related to the topic.

2) In case of an objection, this Motion needs a simple majority to pass.

3) The Presidency may overrule this Motion in case the General Debate has been unsatisfactory, or when the time and the Agenda Item allow more debate to be held on the topic.

Article 14

Motion to Move into a P5 Caucus

1) This Motion may only be raised in the Security Council or the Crisis Security Council by a permanent member. It may also be proposed by the Presidency.

2) A P5 Caucus is an informal meeting in the Security Council and the Crisis Security Council that interrupts the debate. The P5 Caucus shall be held outside the council room with the participation of the P5 Nations and at least one President. During the Caucus they should consult their interests and come to a common solution.
3) Entertaining this Motion is subject to the Presidency's discretion.

Article 15

Motion to table agenda item

1) Motions to table an agenda item may be raised when a delegate feels the need to temporarily suspend discussion on a pending agenda item. Later in the debate, the Presidency may decide to reintroduce the agenda item if they deem it necessary.

2) In case of an objection, the motion needs a simple majority to pass.

Article 16

Motion to introduce agenda item

3) Motions to introduce an agenda item may be raised when the delegates wish to start the debate on a particular agenda item, or go back to one which has been tabled.

4) In case of an objection, the motion needs a simple majority to pass.

5) The Presidency may overrule this Motion in case the flow of debate has been unsatisfactory, or when the time and the Agenda Item allow more productive debate to be held on the topic. In such cases the Presidency must explain their decision.

Chapter XVIII

Body-specific Rules

Article 1

Rules of the General Assemblies

1) The Beginner General Assembly is the plenary meeting of all Delegates taking part in Budapest International Model United Nations in the following committees:
    a) the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (CCPCJ)
    b) the Disarmament and International Security Committee (DISEC)
    c) the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP),
    d) the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO),
    e) the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC).
2) The Intermediate General Assembly is the plenary meeting of all Delegates taking part in Budapest International Model United Nations in the following committees:
    a) the Counter-Terrorism Committee (CTC),
    b) the International Criminal Court (ICC),
    c) the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO),
    d) the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC).
3) The Resolutions of the Committees taking part in the designated General Assemblies shall be debated and voted on during the General Assemblies. The debate time on the Resolutions shall be set by the Presidents of the General Assembly.
4) The Resolutions shall be read out by the main submitter of the Resolution, after which debate on the Resolution may commence. Amendments during the session are in order.
5) General Debate will be held on the Draft Resolutions.
6) Yields shall be in order and moderated according to Chapter XIII.
7) For the International Criminal Court and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization do not produce Resolutions but joint statements, during the General Assembly an assigned delegation from the committee (in the case of ICC the main submitter of the Case) shall read out the statement, and a Speakers' List will be set according to the Presidency's discretion. Points of Information will be in order. Since the General Assembly contains countries which are not members of the aforementioned bodies, the statements will not be voted on, nor will there be any amendments in order.

8) In order to ensure a professional atmosphere, the Reasoned Warning System is entertained. If a delegation reaches 3 Reasoned Warnings, they are excluded from the session for 30 minutes. The Presidents of the General Assembly shall specify the reason for the Warning. A Warning is justifiable if a delegation or a member of a delegation:

    a) repeatedly shows disrespect towards fellow participants,
    b) repeatedly disobeys the Rules of Procedure,
    c) shows unprofessional behaviour,
    d) acts in a way which hinders the progress of the General Assembly.

9) During the General Assemblies all Motions and Points are in order except for the:

    a) Motion to Exclude the Public,
    b) Motion for a Q&A Session,
    c) Motion to Invite a Guest Speaker,
    d) Motion for a Moderated or Unmoderated Caucus.

10) The General Assemblies shall be ruled by the Presidents of the General Assembly according to Chapter II. Article 2, alongside their appointed Co-Presidents.

Article 2

Rules of the Security Council and the Crisis Security Council

1) Each and every part of the Rules of Procedure shall be applied to the Security Council and the Crisis Security Council, except for the variances in conduct listed below.
2) The Security Council has 5 permanent members (the so-called P5 members). The permanent members in alphabetical order are:
    a) The People's Republic of China,
    b) The French Republic,
    c) The Russian Federation,
    d) The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland,
    e) and the United States of America.

3) Special envoys are accepted in the Security Council who shall participate in all the sessions of the Security Council except for Substantive Voting.

4) Decisions of the Security Council on procedural matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of a three-fifths majority.

5) Decisions of the Security Council on all other (i.e. substantive) matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of a three-fifths majority, including the concurring votes of the permanent members.

6) During the Substantive Voting Procedure, Veto Power applies to the 5 permanent members. Veto Power entitles them to strike out a specific Operative Clause as a whole or an Amendment without question or without voting taking place. In case a P5 nation uses its Veto Power, the Operative Clause or Amendment is immediately struck out.

    a) If a Permanent Member wishes to veto an Operative Clause or Amendment, they shall raise a Veto Threat during the debate on the Operative Clause or Amendment. The Veto Threat may not interrupt another Delegate's speech.
    b) If the council is unable to come to a mutual agreement on the problem, any P5 members have the right to call for a P5 Caucus.

7) Debate on a specific Operative Clause of the action plan ends with Substantive Voting.

8) The debates in the Security Council are conducted on an Ad Hoc basis.

Article 3

Rules of Crisis Committees and Debates on Crises

1) Crises are the fictional escalations of existing geopolitical tensions designed by the Crisis Team.
2) Crisis Committees consist of the following committees and councils of Budapest International Model United Nations 2026, which debate on Crises throughout the entire conference:
    a) the World Trade Organization (WTO),
    b) the Crisis Security Council (CSC),
    c) the Human Rights Council (HRC),
    d) the World Health Organization (WHO).

3) The debates in Crisis Committees shall be conducted on an Ad Hoc basis. Second-Degree Amendments are in order throughout the debates.

4) The rules which apply to Crisis Committees may be applied to any committee or council receiving a Mini Crisis.

Article 4

Rules of the International Criminal Court (ICC)

The International Criminal Court, as a non-traditional committee in the Model United Nations framework, has separate rules of procedure to other committees.

1) Delegates are required to prepare Cases against other countries instead of Working Papers.

2) The structure of a Case should go as follows:
    a) a title.
    b) the type of crime (see further in the Committee Guide).
    c) short reasoning for the accusation.
    d) evidence (these can be photos, extracts from articles, ect…).
    e) (Operative Clauses- maximum 2 per Case).

3) Generally all rules stated in the RoP apply for the ICC committee with a few differences in the structure of the debate, which are the following:

a) In the beginning of the conference each delegate is encouraged to give an Opening Speech on their countries' policy and view on the topic.
b) After Opening Speeches the committee will move into Unmoderated Caucus (RoP-Chapter XII. Article 2.)
c) Then the delegate with the most signatures will present their Case along with the evidence.
d) After the prosecutor's speech the delegate of the Accused Country will get to give a Defense Speech.
e) After the speeches other nations wishing to deliver a speech for or against the Case will get to give their speeches.
f) Voting on the Case will go according to the RoP (Chapter XV.)
g) If the Accused is found guilty the committee will proceed with Operative Clauses on the issue presented in the Case.
h) the other delegates are also welcome to submit Operative Clauses to the Case at this point.
i) If the Accused is found not guilty the committee will proceed with the next Case.

Article 5

Rules of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO)

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO from here on out), as a non-traditional committee in the Model United Nations framework, has separate rules of procedure to other committees.

1) Instead of a Resolution, the delegates will work towards the approval of a Communiqué, a written collective statement on behalf of the NATO. Thus, there will be no working papers, signatories, or main submitters necessary.

2) The Communiqué will contain Operative Clauses and Preambulatory Clauses similar to the framework described in Chapter VIII Article 3 and 4 of the RoP, which will be discussed on an Ad Hoc basis.

3) Decisions on all substantive matters (Operative clauses, Amendments and the Communiqué as a whole) shall be reached by consensus. A consensus is reached when no member state present formally objects to the proposal. This is to be checked by a regular voting procedure according to Chapter XV of this RoP, and a unanimous positive vote should be reached.

4) Along with the Points and Motions of the other committees, the NATO's Presidency may initiate a Tour de Table. During a stalemate, every member state is given 30-60 seconds to state their specific grievance or "red line." This replaces the standard Speakers' List to focus specifically on finding a compromise.

5) Based on Article 4 of the NATO's Constitution delegates may call for an emergency consultation, which can be used to draft a separate Communiqué (statement) to address the artificial crisis of the conference. The protocol for an emergency consultation are the following:

    a) After a short debate on the topic at hand, the NATO can issue this statement, which will then be sent to the crisis committees as an additional source of information for their debate. To pass this Communiqué, consensus shall be reached.

    b) Any delegate or the Presidency can call for an emergency consultation. Shall a delegate object to this motion, a ⅔ majority will be required to fail the initiation.

    c) The Presidency has power to determine the amount of time allocated to the emergency consultation, based on the flow of debate and agenda of the main topic. The presidency can also overrule or postpone such consultation if they deem it necessary for a more productive debate on the original agenda.

Chapter XIX

The Assembly of Councils

Article 1

Rules of the Assembly of Councils

6) The Assembly of Councils of BIMUN 2026 takes place on the day of the General Assemblies.

7) The Assembly of Councils consists of the following committees:

    a) the World Trade Organization (WTO),
    b) the Crisis Security Council (CSC),
    c) the Human Rights Council (HRC),
    d) the Security Council (SC),
    e) the World Health Organization (WHO).

8) The Assembly of Councils shall be ruled by the Head of the Crisis Team according to Chapter II, Article 3. Should the circumstances require it, the Head of the Crisis Team can modify the rules and procedure of the Assembly of Councils. In that case, the Head of the Crisis Team has to notify the parties of the Assembly of Councils.

9) In all other matters, the other articles and rules of the Rules of Procedure are to be followed.

Chapter XX

Closing Remarks

Article 1

Amendments to Rules of Procedure

These rules of procedure may only be amended by the decision of the BIMUN 2026 Office of the Secretariat.
